The Missouri Desperado Incites a Reign of Terror in Howell County, Me.

A Citizen of West Plains Driven Out of the Country---The Lives of Others --

88 1-8-1-858 89 From the Springfield (Mo.) Leader. The infamous Monks is at his old tricks again in Howell county. A gentleman in the city from West Phans yesterday gives us the following Attracts the attention of the particulars of a disgraceful affair which occurred in that place on the 6th inst. It seems that a Dr. R. K. Belden, formerly a physician in New York, recently located at West Plains, and commenced the practice of his profession in that place. During the month of April he rented and moved into a house adjoining the residence of William Monks. Shortly after taking possession of the place, the Doctor procured from New York and Philadelphia a valuable assortment of vegetable seed for his garden. Monks had a dog which made a practice of paying regular visits to the garden after the seed was planted and scratching them up. The attention of Monks was repeatedly called to this fact, by the doctor, and he was requested over and over again to tie up the dog, but to no purpose. Finally the annoyance became so insuffer able that the Doctor was compelled to inform Mr. Monks that he would shoot the dog if he continued to trespass any longer. To this threat Monks paid not the slightest attention and on the 8th inst., the dog made his regular visit to the garden and the Doctor let him have a charge of birdshot from a musket which he had loaded expressly for the purpose. The ball then opened in earnest. less than an hour Monks had a dozen men armed to the teeth, drawn up before the Doctor's residence, who swere that they would kill the d-d rabels-n of a b-h on the spot. A number of citizens interfered and tried to preserve the peace, but to no purpose, Monks insisted that the Doctor was Ku-Klux, and to prove it, pointed to midnight the gang had been swollen to at least thirty, all armed with shot-own house, and directed the opera-Matters went on in the manner as described until about three o'clock, when a number of citizens having lodged complaint against Monks, he was arrested by the constable, while the mob was permitted to disperse on promising to desist from further outrage. The Doctor was also arrested at the suggestion of his friends.

The trial of Monks took place the following day. He was bound over in the sum of $100 to keep the peace. He refused to give bonds for a "d-d rebel," and in default of so doing was ordered to the Rolla jail, for which he was to have started on Sunday The doctor meantime gave the required bond and was released. No ers, saying that great importance was less than fifteen of the most respect able and substantial citizens of the place offered to sign the paper.

Monks, our informant tells us, is the eader of a sworn league, who follow his directions in every thing. He has repeatedly asserted that he would rule or ruin the county. Having failed in the former he now seems bent on accomplishing the latter. After his arrest the excitement in the place is and but for the timely aid of Sherift Alsop, several of the most respectable citizens of West Plains would probably have been killed by members of Monks' band. It is intimated that Monks intends running again for the Legislature this since Gladstone and Earl Granville say that the governments concerned render himself infamously prominen again in the county. Dr. Belden, our informant says, has been compell ed to leave the county in order to save his life. He also says Monks and gang have sworn to kill four other residents of the place, if they do not leave before July. These are Messrs. Hynes and McCown, lawyers, B. B. Carter, a merchant, and Dr. George

Why the French and Prussians Don't Begin the Fight ... The Reader Requested to Keep Cool.

No matter how thorough the preparations of America and England.

No matter how thorough the preparations of America and England. No matter how thorough the preparations of the combatants may have been, they cannot place their forces at once at the scene of action. If, as reported, the French purpose to assemble three hundred thousand men between Strasbourg and Thionville, it is hardly possible that the task should be completed before the list of August; and even that rapidity of movement will be something without precedent. The Prussians on their side are, no doubt, using all possible movement will be something without precedent. The Prussians on their side are, no donot, using all possible diligence; but it will be many days before a Prussian army can be drawn up in line of battle opposite to a French army, and the dread signal for the contest between the two be given. In 1859, preparations for the war between France and Anstria were making as early as January, but not a blow was struck till May. In 1866, Anstria and Prussia began to put Austria and Prussia began to put their armies on a war footing in March; but, though they moved with unexampled celerity, the battle of Sadowa was not fought till July.

International celerity, the battle of stadows was not fought till July.

Let ne not be the cause we do not receive the news of great battles immediately, there is to be no war. The war is certain and inevitable. The battles will be sew, and they will be forehand. The exclusion of Belgium from the territory in which the armies can maneuver, and the limitation of it to the narrow expanse between Switzerland and the Belgian frontier, will confine operations to a narrower space than has been opened to any previous war between France and Germany, Bull suffice for combast that will put the families of two great nations into mourning, and will stain one of the most fertile portions of Europe with human blood.

UNITED STATES. New York, July 26,—The Tribune's ondon special dated 1 a.m. this day says: The English feeling has been profoundly moved by publication this grave urgency with which Disraeli in the House this p.m. questioned the government, justly reflected general emotion. It is believed here that, if genuine, its proposals are French, while its rejec-tion is due to Prussia. The copy for the Times is thought to have been supplied from Berlin. It is certain the Times would not have published, unless on evidence deemed conclusive. It was said privately this af-

There is supposed to be an allusion to the same subject in Mr. Cardwell's answer to the que tion in the House about breech-loadattached to the best guns being imme

The Daily News, which has brilliantly led the opinion of England on war questions, will say in the morning that it is impossible not to admit the gravity of the present European crisis. It has for all neutral nations been immensely increased by the publication of the proposed treaty; it complately exposes what everybody believes to be the favorite policy and the cherished design of the French Emperor; it is a secret treaty against England in its offer of eague offensive and defensive. As to its genuineness, the public may be asked to suspend their judgment, say that the governments concerned will be compelled to speak. Suppos-
